In celebration of Lower East Side History Month, join us for a conversation with Theresa Loong, Laura Nova, and Sarah Kramer about Feed Me A Story's video and audio documentation of Essex Market that explores what it means to be an American through questions like, "What is your favorite childhood food?" or "What was the first recipe you learned to cook?" We'll be listening together to clips from their recently launched audio walk of the market, watching videos that feature stories and family recipes from vendors and customers alike, and inviting viewers to share the ingredients and dishes that spark their own stories and memories of family and community.
